

Something I Can Never Have

I could finally see your face
I'm so glad to see you
I've missed you so much
Have you been hiding from me?
You don't even know how fragile this moment is
I can't believe it's finally happening
I've waited so for long
A part of me wishes I could stay here forever
I don't want to wake up anymore
I want to be happy
If even if it means that nothing is real
I can still feel you embrace me
Never have I felt so alive
Are we safe here?
Please don't go
Please I'm begging you
I need you
I can't stop chasing you
I can't stop chasing you
I wish you were something more than something i can never have
You are so beautiful
So perfect
So innocent
If only you knew what I knew
Maybe one day we will realign
Next time I will never let you go
Through all the suffering
And all the strife
Bring me home
This will be over soon
As my breathing becomes shallow
And my vision a thickening blur
Do you ever wonder what could have been?
Have we burned all the good things left in this garden?
Maybe I wasn't strong enough
Just pathetic
I need my absolution
All I ever wanted was more time to enjoy your radiance
Go on
Take everything away from me
I've nothing left anyway
What if we never see each other again?
I'm not strong enough
I don't know if I can keep waiting
Will the day ever come when it's finally over?
Nothing outside of this room exist
I'm choking
I just keep choking and I can't breathe
I would kill myself to be with you