

No More Pain

Our existence outside of reality is what constitutes our being
The act of breathing in itself is one of pure virtue
There is a fabric of which we are sown beyond what we are seeing
We must transcend the natural and enter the metaphysical view
The very things we are remain incalculable
And the prisms that exceed our understanding are unknowable